While potentially unusual for a conference, I believe that you should have an icebreaker, potentially the role playing game, as a starting activity as this might facilitate even better networking and establishment of a network between all parties.	1
The online participation was so-so. Day 1 was better than day 2. The video operator sometimes forgot about showing the slides up close. The organisation was good except for the timing, mostly because the speakers didn't get any help from the moderators to finish in time. Also, some of the speakers were off topic, which was a pity. But the rest of the speakers were interesting, some even very good. And I learned a lot!	1
Thank you very much! Everything was very interesting and necessary.	1
It would be interesting to try other formats such as group discussions or breakout sessions just to put some variation of the format. Especially on day 2.	1
All were perfectly managed!!	1

All parts of the conference were great, however the role playing stood out a bit as I'd offered an opportunity to face reality in a way as well as allowed for more connection between the participants of the conference.	1
Ms Ilze Norvaisa and Ms Merisade Kuusela	1
Always need to be plan but it's good to act!	1
The insight into the local organisations.	1
Speakers, Gusts and organisers:)	1
The young people that presented their projects and operationAid.	1
Need to good communications for kids.	1
